Programme

Day 1

The first day began with registration and networking opportunities, followed by a warm welcome.

Early sessions focused on Singapore's rise as a family office hub, detailing regulatory incentives and wealth migration trends, and then on wealth management and preservation, covering strategies for handling inflation and currency risks and the role of digital assets.

After a networking break, the agenda shifted to capital flows into Asia, exploring the region as an investment frontier, navigating regulatory landscapes, and identifying sectoral hotspots. This was followed by presentations on the future of food and investment opportunities before a networking lunch.

The afternoon started with a spotlight on Asia's economic trends, assessing the impact of digital transformation and macroeconomic factors. Subsequent sessions provided deep dives into asset classes: liquid assets, covering cash management and non-traditional options like ETFs and REITs; and real estate investment trends in APAC, focusing on emerging markets, sustainability, and mitigating risks from rising interest rates. The day concluded with an open discussion on succession plans and closing remarks, followed by an evening reception for informal networking.

Day 2

The second day commenced with registration and networking, followed by opening remarks. The initial sessions focused on high-growth investments, starting with private equity & venture capital, which explored opportunities within APAC's unicorn ecosystem in sectors like fintech and green tech. Discussions also covered navigating valuation challenges, the rise of impact investing for aligning with ESG goals, and cross-border investment strategies to access hubs like India and Southeast Asia.

Next, a session on navigating geopolitical shifts addressed the impact of US-China tensions and global instability, focusing on risk mitigation and ASEAN's strategic neutrality. This was followed by a presentation on digital assets and a networking break.

The sessions then covered startups in family office portfolios, discussing the balance of risk and reward in high-growth sectors like AI and biotech, and strategies for due diligence.

A final deep dive on digital assets explored the evolution of cryptocurrencies, regulatory frameworks, and the rise of Web3 and DeFi.

The summit concluded with a networking lunch, and ended shortly after with closing remarks.
